Dear

I know the Arsenal, its facilities and the capabilities of its personnel, and share with you and others your deep concern over the continuing layoffs which over a period of time have accounted for a very substantial reduction in the number of positions available there.

I have taken this up with the Secretary of the Army and have emphasized to him not only the desirability but the necessity of channeling defense work to the Arsenal to meet this problem.

Let me assure you it will have sustained and continuing attention.

Sincerely,

Everett McKinley Dirksen
