June ..., 1953

Dear ...:

Let me assure you that if and when a proposal to extend the excess profits tax beyond its present expiration date comes before the Senate for attention it will have careful consideration and that consideration will take account not only of the pledges which we made to the people but also of the inhibiting effect of such a tax on industrial incentive and the expansion that is so necessary if full employment is to be maintained in this country.

With every good wish,

Everett McKinley Dirksen
