March ..., 1953

Dear ...:

In the previous congress the Senate Committee on Post Office and Civil Service adopted a resolution for a complete investigation of all operations of the Post Office Department. This, of course, would include rates, waste, extravagance and many other things but unfortunately the Committee operations failed to materialize.

A similar committee made up of members of both the House and Senate will doubtless be formed at an early date for a complete exploration of this whole problem.

I can assure you that it is having good attention.

Sincerely,

Everett McKinley Dirksen
