Dear ...,:

You can be assured that any legislation affecting the rural electric cooperatives and their operations will have most careful attention. I have always been interested in the efficient and successful operation of the co-ops and that interest will continue unabated.

To be sure, problems do arise with respect to the areas in which the co-ops operate and likewise the interest rate on loans, which is one-half of what the Federal Government must presently pay for this borrowed money, and I presume these questions will continue to beget considerable interest as time goes on. However, with respect to aid to cooperatives in the form of funds to carry on legitimate expansion needs, there has been little real question at any time.

Sincerely,

Everett McKinley Dirksen
